DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

Professor Joshua Lederberg
Genetics Department

Dear Josh:

Professor Ronald Breslow of Columbia University is considering a Stanford offer of an appointment in Chemistry. His wife is a biochemist who is a research assistant professor at the Cornell Medical School, supported on her own funds. If the Breslows were to move to Stanford, she would want to find a reasonable place to continue her work on a self-supporting basis. She needs laboratory space for herself and one technician. We can provide space for her in Chemistry, but she would prefer to be associated with a more biologically oriented group.

I am calling this matter to your attention in case you should know of an appropriate opportunity. Mrs. Breslow's biographical material is attached. She will be visiting Stanford on June 15 and 16. An appointment to see her can be arranged by calling my secretary, Miss Anne Foley, at extension 2784.

Best regards,

Bill
